NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, THE PEACE TOWER AND THE CARILLON

The original building containing the Houses of Parliament was destroyed by fire during the war (1916). It has never been determined whether the fire was of incendiary origin or by accident.

The beautiful new building is one of which to be proud. Materials from all parts of the nation were used to represent as far as possible the various interests and activities of the nine provinces.

The Peace Tower is a fitting memorial and reminder of the famous battles fought by the Canadian troops during the world war. It is the pinnacle of the legislative buildings, a symbol of the nation's achievements and aspirations, and is the highest structure in the Dominion Capital, which it dominates. It is a fitting finale to the completion of the Parliament Buildings, addng much to the story of the buildings and nobly expressing the hopes of the Canadian people and the ideas for which this Dominion stands.

As it is intended to express the gratitude of the nation for peace it is most appropriately called the Peace Tower, the corner stone of which was laid by the Prince of Wales on September 1st, 1919, his first visit to Canada after the great war.

The World's Greatest Carillon of 53 bells is now installed in the Peace Tower. These bells have a range of 4½ octaves, their weight being 53 tons. The weight of the clapper for the Bourbon or bass bell is 4,500 pounds and that of the clock hammer 500 pounds.

The Tower is 300 feet high and from the ground to the centre of the clock faces 209 feet. Inside the belfry is a great steel framework 91 feet high and weighing 12 tons, which supports the bells.

OTTAWA

The Canadian Capital

OTTAWA, the Canadian capital, is unique amongst the other capitals of the world, both in origin and development. The sites of most world capitals were selected either because of preponderance of quantity—such as London or Paris—or through compromise between warring national sections as in the case of Washington, and Canberra, the yet unoccupied Australian capital.

Ottawa alone, as a world capital, was selected because of its beauty of natural surroundings and strategic position, the wise choice of Queen Victoria and her advisors of some three generations ago (1857), combined with the intelligent work of the city fathers, and the Dominion Government since that time, has created a finished city of rare charm and loveliness. To-day Ottawa stands unrivalled in a natural beauty which has received man's most able development.

The result is a city of stately towered public buildings, winding driveways by the side of lovely waterways, both mighty cascaded streams and quiet artificial canalways; and throughout these and interspersed are the homes of some eighth of a million of prosperous Canadians. Moreover the mighty Chaudiere and the newer developments along the Gatineau River are responsible for the development of electric power to an amount and degree that has well justified Ottawa's other title of "the electric city." Ottawa's water power, the cheapest in the Dominion, has resulted in a steadily growing commercial expansion, which, along with the lumbering industry, promises a great commercial future.

CHATEAU LAURIER

And best of all, Ottawa is so laid out that her commercial development does not interfere, as it does in so many cities, with her beauty development. Her industries are separate and isolated from the residential city, and electricity being clean and noiseless the city has no pall of smoke to mark her manufacturies.

Centenary Celebrations

This summer, of all summers, has been a glorious one, for it is this year our hundredth birthday has been celebrated. In the pageant and parade the early days of the city were duplicated and one hundred years of progress were shown. Another unique event for the Capital was the world's championship stampede, held in Centenary week, which gave citizens and visitors something different from any previous offering staged in Eastern Canada. The celebration will continue through exhibition week, the dates for this big annual event being August 23rd to 28th. Creatore and his band will be one of many stellar factors in exhibition week. Ottawa will be at its best the latter part of August, and with the good roads from both Canadian and United States cities, there promises to be an exceptionally large influx of tourists.

It is a happy coincident that this summer marked the installation of the great carillon of 53 bells in the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings.

The Mecca of Tourists

Ottawa in the summer time is a place for the gods. No city can be compared with it either in situation, climate or beauty. The hub of Ontario's great wheel of highways, it shines forth like a jewel on the tourist's map. "Here," he says to himself as he studies his route, "is a place to visit." Straightway he sets off, and rolling into the city on the smoothest of roads he breathes a sigh of delight. The pine-scented breeze from the Gatineau Hills, flowers which literally garland the city, shading trees bordering every lawn and arching their welcoming branches overhead, bid him welcome to Canada's capital. High ahead, visible from almost any point within the civic limits, rises the Peace Tower of the House of Commons, guiding him to our City's centre—Connaught Place—upon which faces the Union Station, the Canadian National Hotel—the Chateau Laurier—and the Post Office. Just at the edge of this square and opposite the Parliament Buildings, is located the headquarters of the Automobile Club, Touring Bureau and the offices of Ottawa's Board of Trade.

"The Chateau" is one of the finest hotels on the continent, catering especially to summer visitors.

A call at the Automobile Club office ensures the comfort and enjoyment of the tourist. Advice will be given him as to his living quarters, either at one of our comfortable hotels or at Lansdowne Park, the camping ground provided by the City for tourists who prefer this mode of life. Maps and literature specially prepared for tourists, outlining the different routes laid out for drives through the City and its outskirts, and also indicating the different places of importance and interest throughout the capital, may be obtained.

A glance at one of these maps will show that every place within the City is easily accessible.

Rockcliffe Park, containing 185 acres, the most beautiful natural park in North America, is ten minutes' drive northwards along Lady Grey Drive, following first the sinuous river bank, past the beautiful stone house which was the home of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first Premier, then through part of the City again, passing, at the entrance to the park, Rideau Hall, the official residence of the Governor-General of the Dominion.

The three separate blocks of Gothic architecture which comprise the Parliament Buildings form a centre around which Ottawa is built. The West and East Blocks are used for departmental purposes, but the Centre Block, whose re-erection after the fire of 1916 has lately been completed, is the home of the Parliament of Canada, containing as it does the House of Commons and Senate Chamber. Connected with this main block, but actually independent of it, is the beautiful Parliamentary Library, one of the finest examples of old Gothic architecture in existence.

Places of Interest

The blue hills of the Laurentian Plateau border the horizon to the north and west, providing Ottawa with a background of beauty to be excelled nowhere else in the world. It is among these hills, in their deep woods and swift, cold streams that some of the best sport in the country is to be had, as is evidenced by the numerous Gatineau hunting and fishing clubs and by the number of sportsmen who, every spring and fall, journey into this famous district from all over the continent. Hunting deer and bear in these same hills in the fall provides real thrills.

The Dominion Archives library contains over 45,000 printed books and pamphlets relating to Canadian history; the manuscript room over 20,000 volumes of manuscripts and 15,000 prints and engravings, most of which are original. These latter deal with the country from its discovery to Confederation, and are the main source of Canadian history. The Northcliffe collection of engravings have lately been added. The map room has over 6,000 manuscript plans of Canada, together with the original surveys of the country. An interesting item being a model of Quebec as the city appeared in 1800. This model was in Woolwich Arsenal, England, for 100 years.

The Victoria Museum, at the lower end of Metcalfe Street, gives an unrivalled display for the edification and instruction of all, a priceless and complete exhibition of the wealth, art and variety of Canada's unbounded and unlimited resources in every department.

By Ward Market, one of the most unique spots in Ottawa, lies only a couple of blocks from Connaught Place. Here on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday mornings the market is held. The quaint buildings which surround the market place are some of the very oldest in the City, and these, as well as the market folk themselves, are subjects much in demand with Ottawa's artists, some of whose pictures are on view at the Dominion Archives as well as in the National Gallery at the Victoria Museum.

At the Chaudiere Falls, west of Connaught Place, again a very short run, is the plant of the J. R. Booth Company, Limited. Opposite this, on the Quebec side of the Falls, are the E. B. Eddy match works and paper mills.

Winter and Summer Sports

In summer a visit to the Rideau Hall grounds is interesting. Ottawa offers every type of sport life. In summer lacrosse, tennis, golf (there are several excellent golf clubs), football and baseball, hunting, fishing, swimming and boating. In winter, skating, snow-shoeing, tobogganing, skiing, hockey and curling. The tourist can always find a ready welcome at any of the clubs. Ottawans are famous the world over as a hospitable people. Remember, Ottawa is not only a great summer resort, but that she is also a great winter resort.

In a social way Ottawa is unique. The tourist visiting here with proper credentials can partake in an endless series of socal functions and entertainments, balls, dances, luncheons, receptions and teas. A city of smiles and social life, Ottawa indeed offers unique opportunities to the visitor.

CLEMOW AV.

OTTAWA

From Indian Meeting Place to Canada's Premier City

LADY GREY DRIVE AND VIEW OF ROYAL MINT

The commercial advantages of the Ottawa, the Chaudiere Falls, were perceived long before the white man's arrival by the Algonquin Indians. Here was the goal of yearly trading of many Indian tribes whose ordinary habitats were thousands of miles apart. The river was the route along which the trade of the first inhabitants in Canada travelled before the first occupation and long before Champlain's first famous trip in 1615 up the Ottawa to Georgian Bay.

Great annual fairs were held in this vicinity by the Indians. They came from as far south as Virginia, the Hurons, the Algonquins, who not only came to trade, but to worship at the Chaudiere Falls, which was considered a great shrine, at which propitiatory offerings were made. Father Broeboeuf, Father Daniels, Father Jouges, the great French missionaries to the Hurons, often passed by what was to be Canada's future capital, and some of them have left behind their impressions of the great natural beauty of the place.

The first of the Anglo-Saxons to settle here came in the person of Philomen Wright in 1799. Hull, across the Ottawa, was founded by him, and a lumbering district established. It was not until 1811 that Ira Honeywell cleared and made the first home on this side of the Ottawa close to the Chaudiere Falls. Here in 1811 was born the first white child of the district, so this may be called the real beginning of Ottawa. Between 1811 and 1818 the Richmond pioneers arrived, the soldiers of Waterloo with their wives and children. There were also three settlers who may be called the advance guard of what is now Lower Town.

Between 1818 and 1826 new settlers arrived in numbers. This is the time from which Ottawa really may claim to date its business, in which it had its commercial and financial origin. In 1827 Lt.-Col. By of the Royal Engineers arrived from England and pitched his tent on Nepean Point, on which he gazed around on an almost unbroken wilderness. The Imperial Government in 1814 decided, for the safety and good of British Canada, that all the trade should pass inland to the Ottawa, and it was then that the plans for the construction of the Rideau Canal from Kingston to Ottawa were figured on. Colonel By broke the first sod for this great Imperial military undertaking in the spring of 1827. The great Arctic explorer Sir John Franklin laid the corner stone of the second lock of the Rideau Canal at Ottawa in 1827.

The canal, which was built in six years, cost $4,000,000. This connection with the St. Lawrence river brought business and population to Ottawa, and within a couple of years Ottawa boasted some 50 commercial establishments, mostly small. Many of them, however, laid in those days the foundation of several fine fortunes that are still in existence to-day in the Canadian capital.

Another boon came in 1837 when the first timber slides were constructed in Ottawa. By 1828 there were 150 houses in Ottawa located on the following streets: Wellington, Vittoria, Lyon, Kent, Sussex and Rideau Streets, and a few in Corktown, the settlement of the Irish immigrants which laid along the present canal from Birkett's warehouse to the subway on Elgin Street.

By 1837 there were two small villages of Upper and Lower Town separated by a wooded spur of the hill. A lumbering centre, a lively busy place, with an abundance of intelligence and business enterprise, with 1,300 inhabitants, Bytown grew rapidly and became of great importance, and was incorporated as a town in 1847, having a population of 5,000 at that date. Much of its importance came about as a consequence of its being the distributing centre for the growing districts and lumbering areas of the upper Ottawa.

The first sawmill was erected at the Chaudiere in 1853, and others followed in rapid succession, bringing increased population and wealth to the town, which by 1854, on December 18th, was incorporated as a city. The municipal councillors remembering the writings of Charlevoix in 1740, who called the great trader Indians of that date Outaway instead of Oudatawa from Charlevoix's name gave the new city the name "Ottawa." At the time of its incorporation Ottawa had a population of 7,500 inhabitants.

Long before the name of Colonel By was ever heard in this part of the world, two men strolled along the beach in Hull, one of them, the Earl of Dalhousie, said to his companion, "His Grace the Duke of Wellington has lately proposed a scheme of uniting the Grand River (Ottawa) with Lake Ontario. If such an event should happen, do not be surprised if one day you shoud see on yonder eminence (pointing to Parliament Hill) the seat of the Government of the two Canadas."

IMPROVEMENT COMMISSION DRIVEWAY

This was in the summer of 1815. The prophecy has been fulfilled. Colonel By also had the same dream. All the noble people connected with the building of the capital seemed to have an uncanny vision of the future of Ottawa. Even the great Duke himself dreamed of a vast interior city and a commercial hive of industry. Knowing Ottawa to-day it is inspiring to realize the tradition and history behind her.

On the 1st of July, 1867, the birthday of the new Dominion was celebrated duly in Ottawa by the 18,700 inhabitants of that day, who were proud to think that they were citizens of the Capital City of Canada.

Ottawa's growth since Confederation has been sure and steady, depending on no booms. An examination of the following table bears this fact out, taking ten year periods

Year	Taxable Assessment	Population
1828		1,000
1847		5,000
1848		6,275
1857		7,760

1890	17,109,960	43,122
1900	24,478,800	58,195
1910	55,175,811	86,106
1920	129,630,510	135,154
1921	138,847,044	143,402
1922	140,152,378	156,323
1923	141,634,075	158,166
1924	142,155,312	158,156
1925	144,725,982	160,877

The story of Ottawa from 1867 down to the present date is the story of the growth of a great National Capital. When it is realized that the annual pay list of the Government to its servants who live in Ottawa is $8,000,000, and that this sum is paid out to 8,000 people who spend the most of it in Ottawa, an answer is given at once to the question—why is Ottawa always prosperous from a merchant's standpoint.

Ottawa of Yesterday

The significance of these figures, when one looks at them in the light of the past, means a great deal for the future of the Canadian capital.

The land on which the city originally stood comprises six lots, three lots of Concession C and three lots of Concession D, the boundary line between them being Cumberland Street. The first of these two lots extending north and south from Maria Street (Laurier Avenue) as far south as Ann Street (now Gladstone) and east and west from Concession Street (now Bronson Avenue) to the Rideau river, were patented to Grace McQueen in 1801 by the Crown. Her family lived there till 1832, when these lands were sold for $5,500 to Colonel By. In 1802 Jacob Carman took out a patent for two lots similar in size from Pooley's Bridge to the Rideau between Ottawa and Cathcart Streets on the north and Wellington and Rideau Streets on the south, which included Parliament Hill and Major's Hill Park. This property changed hands for ten pounds, and in 1823 was again taken possession of by the Crown at a price around $3,500. The remaining two lots between these two properties, one of which is now the business centre of Ottawa, was obtained by John Burrows, who afterwards in 1826 sold it to Nicholas Sparks for a ridiculously low figure as compared with later prices. The rest of the city as we know it to-day was patented to Louis T. Besserer in 1828. The value of these three properties in those days ran to about $25,000; to-day they are worth almost $100,000,000.

Industrial Ottawa's Great Future

Ottawa has to-day a population of 165,359 inhabitants, which number is increasing every year. It covers an area of 5,295¼ acres (exclusive of 856 acres covered by water), or approximately ten square miles. It has an assessed value of rateable property, which does not include the Parliament Buildings and Government Departmental Buildings, of over $144,500,000. Within the boundaries of the city there are over seventy-one miles of paved streets, 248 miles of paved walks, 221 miles of water mains, and 167 miles of sewers, and 55 miles of street railways. Government-owned buildings are valued at over $33,974,000. The total taxable real estate in Ottawa for 1925 was $144,725,982.

TOURISTS' CAMP "EXIT" LANSDOWNE PARK

Ottawa owns her own electric and waterworks systems, has 26,500 houses, 350 public buildings, 63 public schools, one university, 100 churches, 16 theatres, 216 industries, 45 clubs, 57 hospitals and asylums, 50 Government buildings, 20 parks, 25,000 telephones in use, and over 150 insurance companies at work, everything that makes life worth while is to be found in Ottawa.

The Ottawa Civic Hospital, situated on the north side of Carling Avenue, opposite The Experimental Farm, which has been erected at a cost exceeding $3,500,000, was opened in 1924. This with the Water Street Hospital give to the city ample hospital accommodation.

Freight rates to the great markets of Western Canada are the same per class per cwt. as rates from Toronto, London, Hamilton, Windsor and other Ontario industrial centres, with the advantage of one-half to two days' quicker service from Ottawa to Western ports, by reason of direct haul without transhipments, as is necessary on consignments of freight from points not on the main line of the great transcontinental railway lines like Ottawa is. This point is vital for the manufacturer and investor, and all the more so when it is realized that Ottawa on eastbound and export traffic has the advantage in both rates and time over all other Ontario and Western Canadian cities by reason of location and more direct lines and transportation facilities between this point, the Atlantic ports and the United States, and that in addition she has woodworking, papermaking, and for kindred industries raw materials available in the city and within easy access, and that Ottawa offers for any industry such as woollen, flour, furniture, steel, the cheapest haul of the raw products required of any city in Canada.

It is important to remember that as an industrial centre Ottawa stands pre-eminent in her wealth of opportunity. She has an abundance of cheap power, nearby sources of raw material, a plentitude of safe, sound labour, excellent transportation facilities by water and rail with low freight rates, on national transcontinental routes.

Water Power

Some thirty miles in a direct line from the city on the Ottawa River is a series of rapids from which a lake derives its name. At this point the lake is nearly one mile in width and is barred diagonally by a huge ledge of limestone rock, over which the water pours from a height of nearly fifty feet, forming the Chats Falls.

In high water periods there are over thirty separate falls. These falls are capable of developing from 140,000 to 170,000 horse power, and should in the near future be a valuable commercial asset to the city.

LOOKING DOWN THE OTTAWA RIVER SHOWING CANOE CLUB AND DRIVEWAY, ROCKCLIFFE PARK

From industrial and commercial standpoints, Ottawa to-day stands in the front rank. She offers a combination of greater advantages and economic facilities than any other city in the Dominion. Ottawa has the cheapest power and light in Canada, and the consumption of power is about 75,000 h.p. when required, and operated in the very heart of the city. Within fifty miles of Ottawa there is available 1,000,000 hydraulic horse-power low water estimate. This is made up as follows:

Ottawa River, all tributaries above Ottawa, including the Mississippi, Madawaska and Bonnechere rivers, 589,330 h.p.; Ottawa River and all tributaries below Ottawa, including the Gatineau River, Riviere du Lievre, 269,683 h.p. In considering Ottawa's future in that we are now in "the white coal age," water power must be considered. When we realize that within fifty miles of Ottawa there is about 1,000,000 h.p. available, and consider that Niagara only gives a horse power of 400,000, the future of Ottawa industrially can be seen. Realize that within ten miles of the city hall 230,000 h.p. is available

Ottawa, the city of cheap water power, and lots of it, offers special inducements to the investor and manufacturer, splendid industrial sites and trackage are available, and cheap. Within the city limits with fixed assessments for a large number of years there are available sites awaiting occupancy at a nominal cost.

Ottawa offers industrial advantages as above; this is why Ottawa is probably the largest lumber centre in the world with a normal average production of from 450 to 500 million feet of lumber per year.

Ottawa has the world's largest industrial factories producing paper, cardboard, tents, awnings and cement.

Transportation by rail and water are ideal. There are nine steam railways entering the city, eight water transport lines, and three express companies which connect with all the railroads in eastern and central parts of the United States.

The water lines operate via the Rideau Canal to the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes, Montreal and the Atlantic seaboard.
